A Blind Date With the World gives the reader a seat in the ox-cart with the team that eventually won a grueling 40,000 miles-in-seventeen-days-through-ten-countries travel adventure. Chalmers offers up a steady barrage of colorful, intriguing and provocative insights into our Global Village as he and his partner-in-crime race through sacred holy grounds, track down orangutans and employ every conceivable method of public transportation. Billed as the HumanRace,what was thought to be relaxing champagne and caviar sojourn around the world turned into "the scavenger hunt from hell!" The race had its rabid competitors from around the world chasing down aphrodisiacs in Asia, escaping train fires in Egypt and skulking around graveyards at midnight in France, for fame and fortune awaiting them in New York City. Chalmers and Valvur eventually won the race, but not without barely surviving the ordeal and transforming themselves into global cultural terrorists. Expressive, heart-thumping, compelling and totally irreverent, A Blind Date With the World offers a unique and colorful looks at "Homo touristicus" running amok in the world at the height of the Greed is Good Go Go years. A must read for any real adventurer or armchair traveler.

Since 1979, William Taylor has been taking hundreds of Northern California high school students to Europe, North Africa and the Middle East to uncover the roots of Western history as part of a unique educational program. Arete West students participate in a nine-month curriculum, reading and discussing historical literature, then fly overseas to explore the sites they studied. For Arete students, the odyssey is both a journey into history and a formative encounter with the self. This book celebrates the Arete program, as William Taylor and his students articulate Arete memories from the past four decades. For young adults interested in the world around them, parents wishing to enrich their children's education, and teachers seeking new and inspiring ways to reach their students, The Greatest Classrooms of the World presents fresh ideas and possibilities. More than a collection of personal trip memories, this book communicates the search for personal excellence, the passion of international youth travel, and a program that can be emulated and adapted all over the world.

Uses the actual pages of the "The World Almanac for Kids" to offer activities designed to develop reading comprehension and critical thinking skills by reading nonfiction information to find the answers to related questions.
